Joseph Richmond presented his proposal for the three bus shelters on W. 117th St. Mr. Robar suggested using more women in the portraits as there were 6 men and 1 woman in the piece. Mr. Richmond will return to W. 117th Street to interview additional women, and to show them what their image would look like on the shelter. He will update the design accordingly. Public Art Options: 2024

* Right now, we have a grant for the National Endowment of the Arts which promised a $25,000 match for a sculpture piece in the intersection of Sloane/Detroit. We will not hear back about that grant until April 2024.

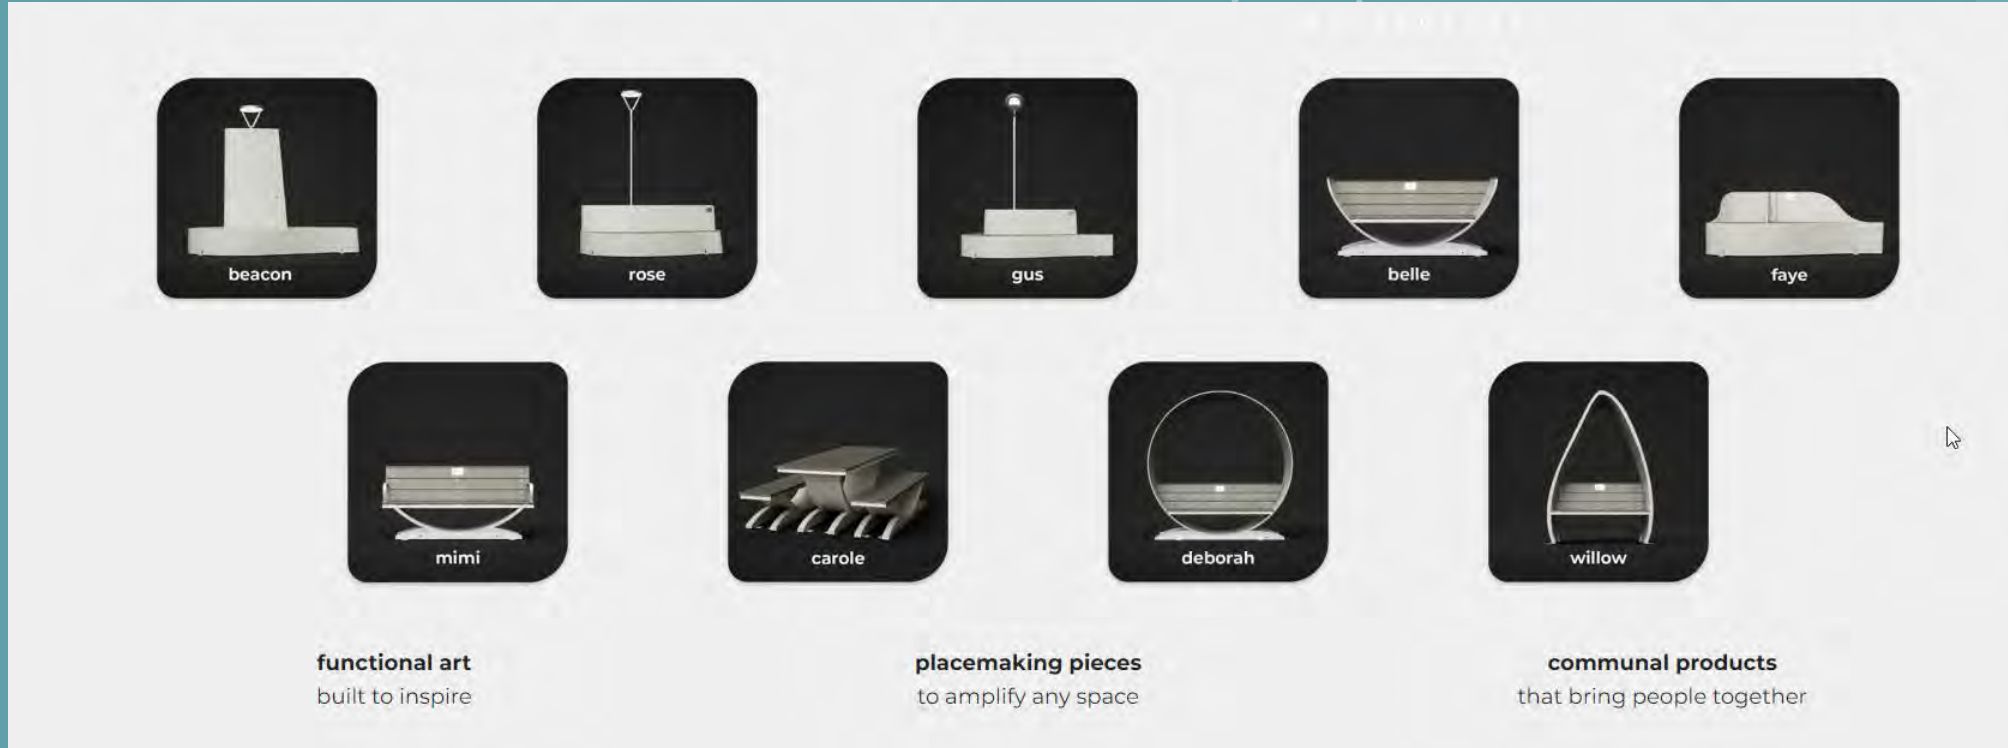

Banners

Canvus street furniture: $35,618 for 4 Faye benches (left), 1 Deborah bench (right)

Other Canvas Options

- Would need to get new quote for individual pieces if we wanted to get several of the same item.

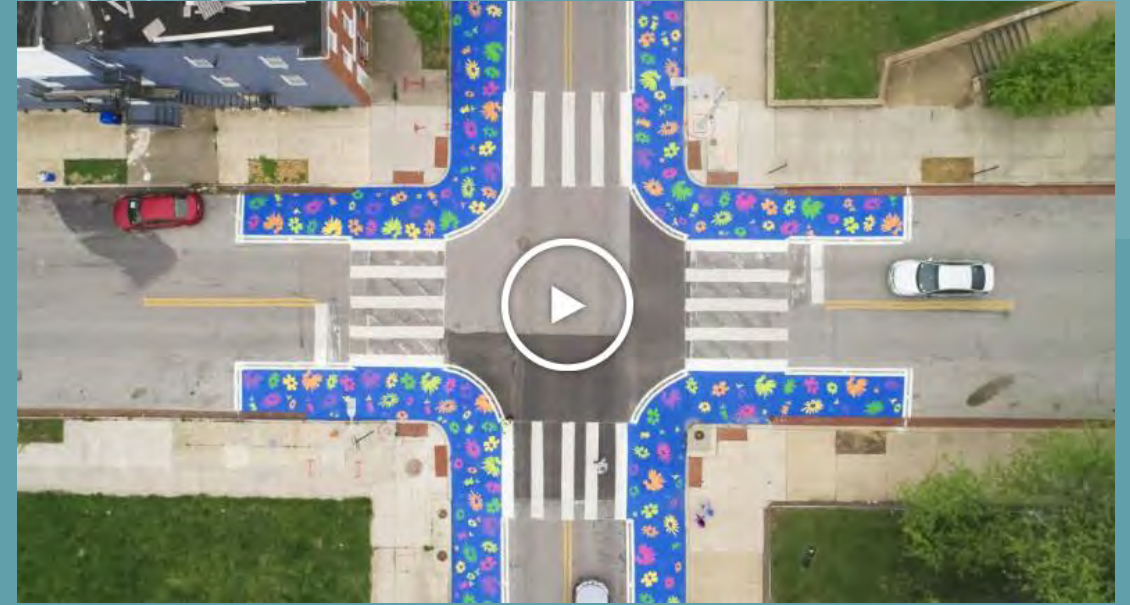

Maintenance of former murals/art

- We have gotten several businesses/artists who have noted their murals are falling off (Aladdin's, next to Superscript) and need to be fixed.
- Damage at Lakewood Park Skate area
- Proactive approach to address mural maintenance
- Will leave plenty of room in the budget for additional murals – people still often reaching out about wanting to add murals to their buildings.

Asphalt Art – about $22,000

- Only negative is that it is temporary or will need continued maintenance often.
